Development Application

The last information I had from the surf club/beach services project team was that the DA is still tracking for lodgement this Friday the 15th. Hopefully I'll have more on that next week.

Demolition

I noted in my run this morning that the Maureen Grierson Centre is now rubble and Nick Stewart, the Demolition Man informs me that the old club room is finally due to be knocked down this coming Monday. What Nick did suggest is for the club to record the final moments for posterity and our own Scott Wright aka Senor Spielbergo will be behind the camera. While the President going down with the ship may be the something a number of club members would like to see I believe Scott is auditioning for a lady to join young Di Caprio lookalike Lachlan in a homage to Titanic.

Presidents Message

Jody Ballard: Occupation Actor

Sitting around Wednesday morning at C-Breez trying to warm up after the swim and cold shower we noticed a couple of camera men come in out of the darkness looking for a bit of shelter from the conditions. I asked what they were there to film and they said it was a small biopic on a volunteer lifesaver. I hadn't heard anything about it but then who should walk in, Jody Ballard. Jody said it was for a short film for Bankwest about corporate volunteering and would include a few other staff as well. Volunteering as part of a corporate social responsibility is a fantastic way for companies to contribute to the not for profit sector and Bankwest should be applauded for allowing people like Jody to bring such value to surf lifesaving.

PP

Those with long memories of the Scarboro Serf, the paper newsletter delivered by the postie mounted on his red deadly treadly will recall that mythical figure, PP. Who was he? We seek him here and they seek him there, like the Scarlet Pimpernel, or Zorro or maybe the Ghost Who Walks, PP was the scourge of the establishment, an iconoclast who challenged conventional thought. I heard it whispered that PP was still around and hadn't been lost to the digital age. I'm expecting this pamphleteer to produce his first article, pricking the bubble of Executive complacency sometime fairly soon. Look out for his byline.
